WANTED! SERVICES THAT ONLY YOU CAN PROVIDE

By Jeff N Marquis and Kerry J Harrison

Yes, your services are needed by none other than the United States Government, other Governments from around the world, businesses of all sizes, and over 750 million persons worldwide. Let us warn you that the 750 million is only the tip of the iceberg because this number is increasing rapidly with each day. In addition, there are practically hundreds of millions of global consumers who are in a similar position to the 750 million consumers.

This is no joke and we hope that you pay attention because you can be a winner out of all of this. All of these people that we have mentioned are not looking for you to volunteer your services but they are willing to pay big dollars for you to provide them with services which are in very great demand and these demands are quickly beginning to spiral out of control.

The demands for these services are being driven by those very untapped markets which are extremely lucrative, have no borders because they exist worldwide, and which will continue to grow for as long as we are unable to stop such things as: The aging process, afflictions such as Diabetes and other similar diseases, loss of vision, blindness, deafness, and mental afflictions. Then there will be those unfortunate persons who are going to need your services because of terrorist attacks and battles of war.

In addition, we have over 888 million consumers worldwide who are demanding services because of the tsunami like growth of technology and this market is expected to grow to about one billion by the end of 2005. Then we are going to add the 171 million consumers around the world who are also seeking your expertise and they too have money to spend on the services that they are seeking. Finally, allow us to expand this picture by mentioning the over 31 million Spanish-speaking Americans along with the over 70% of those global users whose first language is not English.

All of these markets are seeking services that will provide them with convenience, support, and accessibility. We like to call them soft services. The United States government is spending billions of dollars to build these services and other world governments are starting to do the same. America knows that by the year 2010 60% of our population will be made up of some of these untapped markets, and they will probably be in possession of about 70% of our banking assets. Just imagine what the stats are going to be like for the rest of the world!

We are going to give you some examples here and then we'll leave it to you to start thinking and please don't take too much time because others are going to grab these opportunities before you know it.

You need to think of those services that will benefit more than one type of person. It is the "multi purpose" concept. The delivery service that would benefit the busy housewife, the senior, and the person in the wheelchair. The installation service that will benefit the busy executive, the aging baby boomer, and the traveling salesman. The service that will benefit the Internet entrepreneur, the retiree, the special needs person, and the technically shy.

Now we think you've got it.

You can learn more about the dimensions of these very lucrative and untapped markets, how to stay ahead of your competition by discovering these markets before they do, how to become indispensable experts who will be paid big dollars for their expertise, and much more by purchasing a copy of the book "Untapped Wealth Discovered" (the safest and richest untapped markets of the 21st century)" written by us.
